BASE BALL TEAM TAKES ANOTHER

Salad Birds of Carlisle again Fall before Gettysburg's Ball Players. Butch Weimer Responsible for the Victory.

Little credit can be given the locals for their second defeat administered to the Salad Birds of Carlisle on Wilson Field when the Cumberland County players were taken across 4 to 3.

An amateurish exhibition early in the game well nigh disgusted the loyal supporters and it looked as though they were due for a repetition of the school boy playing which at times featured the game with York. Only the timely arrival of "Dutch" Weimer, who took care of center field in the absence of McDonnell saved the game and to him, rather than to the regulars, is due the credit for the victory. His hits were responsible for two runs. Plank and Oyler were the only other Gettysburgians to hit safely.

Bradshaw was on the mound for Gettysburg and struck out eight. Hart pitched for Carlisle passing four men, allowing six hits and striking out twelve.

Carlisle scored a run in the first after two were out. Herman reached base on a hard error. He started the second. Skelly threw to center field. Herman proceeded to third from where he scored when Oyler failed to stop Weimer's throw-in.

Carlisle scored again in the second. Hart reached third on his smash to left. Skelly threw past Oyler and Hart scored. The visitors got another in the fourth. Adams hit a two bagger to center. Hart sent another of his curve balls to center, Adams scoring.

"Lefty" Bradshaw tightened up after the fourth and Carlisle never scored again.

Gettysburg scored its first run in the second. Herman Sharry reached first base when the catcher dropped the third strike. Frank bunted and Sharry was out at second. Weimer then hit to the right field swamp for three bases, Frank scoring.

Gettysburg did not score again until the sixth. Brenan walked and advanced to second on Oyler's out. Brenan scored from second on Plank's hard hit. "Butch" Weimer reminded Hart that he was still in the game by scraching out a double. Plank scored on Oyler then singled through short and Weimer scored. These three runs finished the scoring.

Features of the game were Weimer's hitting, Sharry's catch in the ninth, and Brenan's catch in the first.

Bee's Favorite Color.

The late Sir John Lubbock, one of the most noted authorities on bees, proved by long observation and repeated experiments that blue is the favorite color of the bee, and that next after blue come in order of preference, white, yellow, red, green and orange. Sir John determined the fact that a bee visits about 25 flowers per minute, and that it always keeps to the same species of flower during each visit to the beds.

Exterminate the Cockroach

The cockroach is as far an insect pottor of typhoid fever, bubonic plague and possibly cancer. Several years ago an epidemic of typhoid fever on a United States warship was proved to be propagated by cockroaches. In a recent issue of the London Lancet, Sir W Melville Davison calls attention to the fact that the cause of cancer may be an alga or vegetable microorganism which is found in the histones of several species of roaches.

One on Father.

A young minister preached one Sunday to a rural congregation and spent the next day visiting the people. At one house the son of the house was enjoying his supremacy of the morning in very complimentary terms while assisting the minister to put up his team. His little son had followed him and after seeing the minister a minute or two exclaimed: "Why, papa, you told he was a one horse preacher, but he's got two hosses!"—National Monthly.

BLANQUET MADE HUERTA BESIGN

Dictator Compelled to Quit by War Minister.

ARREST WAS THREATENED.

Hostile Mob Drinking Hard When He Was Brought Up With Sharp Turn. General Blanquet Tried Hard to Oppose Iron Hand Ruler Without Suffering Life or Liberty.

It was only through the greatest pressure that Huerta has forced to leave the holiday land of Mexico the president-dictator of Mexico

On Saturday General Huerta started the drinking bout which ended only when he left the capital. It began immediately after the appointment of Presidente Carbajal as minister of foreign relations, according to information which has come from the capital. The dictator went to the Cafe Colon, where he drank until far into the night. He then spent the entire day Sunday drinking at the Cafe Cumbre and at Colon.

Carbajal expected Huerta to resign Monday, but the dictator spent the day traveling from place to cafe in his automobile. Intoxication was apparent by far from his usual, and that evening Carbajal sent a note to Huerta, saying:

"You promised to resign today. I believed you as a man of your word. If you do not resign immediately and leave the capital I will do so."

Huerta's First Defiance.

It was the first time any one had opposed Huerta without being shot or liberty. Huerta did not order that Carbajal be slain.

"My promise wasn't let me resign," was the dictator's extreme.

Carbajal then represented to the man who has been chosen to Huerta said that he was not a tool in the Mexican array. He went to General Blanquet and urged him to persuade Huerta to resign.

Blanquet believed Huerta should leave. He went to Huerta and offered to furnish the dictator in case of the cafes Huerta remained. Blanquet's argument played his strongest card. He told his war minister that if Huerta said: "But you can't resign!" Huerta thundered at him with the Mexican war cry: "Viva Huerta!"

NEW RATES MEET RAILROADS' LOSS

$16,000,000 Advance Rate Than Effaces Income Slump.

AMOUNTED TO $14,000,000

Interstate Commerce Commission Orders a Lower Schedule to Take Effect Six Changes—Board May Modify Some Schedules Without Hearing the Roads—Where Rates Go Up.

The order of the interstate commerce commission on application of the railroads to advance classification territory for permission to make an average increase of 5 per cent in their freight rates, making certain increases that will swell the freight revenues of the carriers certain about $16,000,000 annually, will be a decided boon. It is contended, and will serve to overcome the recent decrease in earnings of the roads in the last few years.

An increase in rates will speak the New York Times, in the class rates between Buffalo and Pittsburgh and between Chicago and St. Louis that will more nearly approach the full 5 per cent asked for than the increase allowed on class rates in any other railroad territory. The increase in class rates, it is understood, will not apply to New England and territory east of Buffalo and Pittsburgh.

Forty Million More Revenue.

In 1913 the freight revenues of the eastern railroads included in the effort to obtain an advance in rates were $1,000,000,000 and the effect of this revenue would be $40,000,000 if the increase in rates were allowed, which is the amount of revenue that the railroads have contended, in briefs and notes will be produced by the increase in rates. The figure is based on the commission contends that if the railroads adopted the rates and made the economies that the commission will suggest there will be an increase in revenue of about $27,000,000. This amount, added to the amount derived from the increase in rates would swell the revenue by more than $60,000,000 and would leave a balance of $13,000,000 less than the railroads asked for.

The five reforms submitted by the commission, which it is contended, are not so valuable showing that in the future roads cannot increase their expenses but increase faster than their gross earnings and that net earnings will not increase as the capital invested in those three years. The five reforms suggested by the commission contended and backed up the statement that the increase in revenue of $14,000,000 "The commission may have had this amount of loss in mind in granting rate advances that, according to the commission's calculations, would produce an increase of about $16,000,000.

Showed $14,000,000 Decrease.

The application for rate increases in eastern territory covering nearly 50,000 miles or railway with a total of 110,231 miles of roads, showed that the operating expenses increased $100,000,000 in the same period that the gross earnings increased $114,000,000 or $20,000,000. There was an increase of 10 per cent in operating expenses in 1913 as compared with 1912 in the 5 per cent increase in gross.

In a statement of the case the railroads in presenting their case it was said, "the cutting that the commission proposes is not actually deducted $14,000,000 that "even and these economies would be an increase of operating expenditure in the period they would still have been 10 per cent in the 5 per cent increase.

It was asserted by the railroads that "the commission proposes to cut in substance that is, the cost of rail and and equipment expenditure is most $600,000,000.

The total capital obligations of the railroad companies in official classification territory at the time the report was presented to the commission was $12,200,000,000, of which $5,300,000,000 represents the total capital stock. In 1913 the forty-nine companies earned $1,474,000,000 gross. Their net earnings after deducting operating expenses were $317,000,000. Their income after payment of interest on the funded debt was $1,000,000,000. Of this income the companies declared dividends of $1,000,000,000, amounting to 19.3%. Profits, which are considered less than the dividends paid out in 1912 and 1913 were less than the dividends in 1910.

PLAY ILLUSTRATES SERMON.

Church Members Act Out Story of Courtship of Rebecca.

The Rev. Charles W. Stanley, who is preaching in the Sandstone gospel tent at Irvington, N. J., illustrated a sermon on the courtship of Isaac and Rebecca by inviting members of his congregation to act out the story.

The parson's son, Frank, played the part of Isaac. Mrs. Walter A McMillan of Irvington was Rebecca, and Harry Bradshaw of Hilton N. J. was Abraham. Others who had parts were Mrs. Ella Bradshaw and Miss Hazel Bradshaw of Hilton, Miss Edith White of Newark and Mrs. Jennings of Rockaway. The parson's wife played at Hilton and conducted the return.

MANY GIFTS FOR THE ORPHANAGE

Receipts on Anniversary Day Amount to Five Hundred Dollars. Local Reformeds Contribute to Successful Bazaar. Large Crowd.

A record estimated at from 1200 to 1500 gathered at Lutheran Orphanage near Littlestown on Thursday for the fourth annual reunion, and not only enjoyed the exercises, but contributed liberally to the support of Adams County's newest institution. The receipts for the day amounted to about $500.

Of this amount $150 was received in a free will offering taken during the day. A bazaar yielded a net return of $115 and the remainder was received from the dinner and refreshment stands, nickelodeon and from the dedicated from this latter amount.

Adams County people contributed liberally toward the support of the institution. Many of the churches of the Reformed church, Gettysburg, gave a fine assortment of caps, aprons, and fancy articles. The Ladies' Sewing Circle of Gettysburg gave aprons; the Women's Bible Class sent aprons; the Arendtsville made a cash contribution of $5.00; the members of St. John's church, Gettysburg, Diers sent aprons and towels while Mrs. Aaron Lohr, added a dollar in cash. Other valuable contributions included aprons from Mrs. Charles Rife, Orrtanna, Mrs. J. Kennedy, Gettysburg, and Miss Lillie F. Wolf, Abbottstown; sewing bag, Mrs. R. Alland, Abbottstown; fancy articles, Mrs. J. J. March, Abbottstown; beds, Miss Alma Lowmaster, Abbottstown; trays, Mrs. John F. Butt, McKnightstown.

Massed about the speakers' stand were a number of interested persons in a space of about 60 by 100 feet being crowded with women and children, the former dressed in white. The program as announced was carried out with the exception of one item. Prof. Kurzenknabe, of Harrisburg, and Mrs. Hartman, of the Orphanage, sang a duet which was a large proportion of the visitors while others took the opportunity to view the place. The large attendance was ample evidence of the interest being shown locally in the Orphanage and its success.

Dedicating Lots.

A Chalk Bunch of "Bulls" From the Mouth of Congressman.

"There is no place like the home of congress for a "bull" to be thrown out. It will be a long time before we have a "bulletin" equal to the outburst of Mr. Mann, member who said, "The British lion, whether it is roaring the destiny of India or shaking the forests of Canada, will, after all, be but a little lion in the jungles of the world."

It recalls the famous "bull" made by Sir William Hart-Dyke, the unlucky ex-minister, to an earnest speech in which he said: "Ireland contains one day by remarking: "The right honorable gentleman has spoken for an hour this time. He has gone to the top of the hill and back again."

Alluding to an item of $2,000,000 in the Sundry Civil bill, a prominent member described it as "a fine bull in the ocean." Mr. Mann's contribution to the literature of the European troops employed in India, remarked, "Great increase of expenditure in the period they would still have been 10 per cent in the 5 per cent increase.

HUNDRED DOLLAR FINE FOR CARTER

Ollie is Returned to Jail after Pleading Guilty. Will not Likely be sent back to Pen. Baltimore Negroes are Sentenced.

At a session of sentence court held on Thursday afternoon Ollie Carter pleaded guilty to a serious charge growing out of his arrest some days ago when the house of Nellie Cross was raided. Judge Swope sentenced him to a fine of $100 and to "stand committed until sentence is complied with."

It is scarcely probable that Carter will pay the hundred dollars and he was returned to the jail to stay in Sheriff Thompson's care until further action. The Eastern Penitentiary officials have been notified of Carter's recent arrest and they expressed a willingness to allow local authorities to decide whether or not he should be sent back to complete the last half of three years' indeterminate sentence. It has been decided to give Carter another trial here.

The three Baltimore negroes, arrested at the time of the excursion here last Monday, all pleaded guilty. James Blake and George Fisher to a charge of gambling, and William O. Turner, to assaulting a woman. Claimed that they had never been arrested before. They were given thirty days each in the county jail.

James Hale pleaded guilty to the charge of being a tramp and was discharged.

Current business included the appointment of C. B. Sadler as overseer for the three minor children of Urbin E. Weldner, late of Cumberland township. Bond in the sum of $1000 was approved.

The Guardian Trust Company, of York, was appointed guardian of Martha E. Sebright, daughter of William F. Sebright, late of Reading township. Bond in the sum of $1000 was approved.

The Guardian Trust Company of Gettysburg was appointed guardian of the minor children of Barbara Ness, late of East Berlin. Bond in the sum of $1000 was approved.

Vo Owens, S. Miles Miller and Martin L. Power were appointed viewers to change the location of a road leading from the borough of Fairfield and Fountaindale road.

Jacob Bupp was granted a decree in divorce from Ruth Ringeal.

Civil War Week Coming.

An antiquarian society has recently obtained one of the most interesting relics of the Civil war. It consists of the commercial tokens and notes issued by tradesmen during the Civil war when small change of the government issue became a rarity. There are in the collection about one thousand also hundred varieties of tokens.

Famous Regiment.

The Bull, the famous old "Nutcrackers," of which the king of Denmark was appointed colonel-in-chief on his recent visit to England, are one of the oldest corps in the British army. They were evolved from the old trained bands in the days of Elizabeth, and because of this ancient connection with the capital they have the privilege of marching through the city of London with faced bayonets, beating drums and flying colors.

MANY ENJOYED UNION PICNIC

Games, Races and Band Concert are the Big Features of Gettysburg's Annual Sunday School Outing.

Gettysburg had its best Sunday School picnic for many years on Wednesday afternoon and evening when a crowd swirling that of "Opening Day" gathered for the annual outing. Business and dwelling houses kept the crowd small in the afternoon but the evening saw hundreds at the popular resort.

Only one accident occurred to marr the day. Mrs. Anna Weikert was struck on the wheel by a swiftly moving base ball from the bat of one of the players in the Presbyterian-Reformed game. She was painfully hurt and after preliminary attention, she was removed to her home. It is not thought that the injury is of a serious character.

The program of attractions provided by the committee kept every one busy all evening. Prof. Lee McDonald and out the Citizens' Band for their first public concert since the beginning of leadership. They played for several hours to the great pleasure of the large crowd.

The keenly contested game of baseball between the Red Birds and the Jenny Wrens was again the occasion for much excitement. The victors of Opening Day were victorious at this time, the Red Birds taking away the game by the score of 5 to 1.

Ice cream was the prize offered the victors in the various dashes. Five Hoover ice cream freezers were the winners were Keith Berger, Joseph Bollinger, Harry Pittenger, Nelle Pittenger, and Catherine Bollinger, of Washington.

An interesting game of base ball in the evening resulted Gettysburg Furniture Factory 4, Reaser Furniture Company 0.

In the afternoon the Reformeds entertained their winning team of the Sunday School League by defeating the Presbyterians 8 to 7. Bringman pitched for the Reformeds and Jones for the Presbyterians. Eight runs were batted off his delivery in the last two innings.

TAKE CHICKENS BY THE HUNDRED

Old Chickens and Young Ones, Fancy Chickens and Common Ones, Taken by Gang Operating in Eastern Section of the County.

Chickens, the ordinary garden variety and some of more distinguished ancestry, have been stolen, literally by the hundreds, from the chicken houses of Yost Brothers' farm during the past few nights and as a result, farmers in that thrifty farming community have converted their houses into veritable arsenals in anticipation of further visits from the intruders.

Michael Bower was one of the heaviest losers. Now thus one hundred chickens, including both young and old ones, were removed from his coops one night this week, the hard breeding almost all of his poultry. Clinton Lafferty, of Yost Brothers' mansy and neither one lost any depredation due to the thief.

At the house of Gilbert Fair, two separate hauls were made, the thieves calling one night to remove all the old chickens and then having sufficient time to return the next for the young ones.

Charles B. Cordner is one of the heaviest losers not in numbers but in the weight of birds stolen. Mr. Gardner recently bought some fine chickens, expective to exhibit them at the poultry show at Biglerville next winter. Every one of them was taken and Mr. Gardner is out chickens, money and fine birds.

Postmaster Emmert is nursing a sore shoulder as the result of his run from a shot gun which he received on Tuesday night when he heard some one prowling around his chicken house. Mr. Emmert heard some of his chickens squawking about midnight and fired his gun to scare off supposed thieves. There was evidence next morning that some one had made a hurried departure from his chicken house.

Hardware dealers in the town are selling nearly as much ammunition now as they formerly did for the majority of the farmers have armed themselves.

The thieves have not confined their operations alone to the town but have visited a number of nearby farms. Suspicion rests on supposed guilty parties but as yet sufficient evidence has not been obtained to warrant arrests.

DRAGGED BY A RUNAWAY HORSE

Animal Takes Fright at Trolley Car, Pulls out Driver and Runs from Away. Daughter Stays in Carriage and is Unhurt

Thrown from a carriage when his horse took fright at a trolley car, V. Eyler, of near Harney, had a narrow escape from serious injury at Gettysburg on Wednesday. His daughter stayed in the vehicle and escaped harm.

Mr. Eyler and his daughter had just reached the foot of the long hill leading from Mentzer Inn into the Franklin County village. They were riding in a single seated carriage and the horse took fright when a trolley car, bound from Waynesboro for Pen Mar, hove into sight around a sharp curve.

The horse swerved sharply, in the direction of the car and then made a short turn in the opposite direction, snapping off a shaft. Mr. Eyler was thrown out of the vehicle. Fortunately he clung to the lines and was dragged along for over a good distance before finally letting go, after receiving a number of cuts and bruises.

With one shaft broken and hitched to the buggy, the horse started up the mountain and some repairs to the vehicle were made before the driver was able to proceed on their way.

WEDDED IN FOREST

Romantic Marriage of Young Couple by Moonlight.

Under the darkening boughs of a pine, close by a splashing mountain cascade, with a pale moon shining down, through a rift in the clouds, a faint chime of silvery light on the pulsesque rocks and lofty crests, was the setting for the nuptials of a young Waynesboro couple, Saturday evening.

With the only witness the mother of the bridegroom, and the officiating minister the Rev. Dr. J. Lower Bentzel, pastor of the First Lutheran Brethren Church, Waynesboro, practically invisible in the deep shadows of the big forest, the young man with the marriage of Harry A. Niedentell, son of Professor H. A. Niedentell, and Miss Elizabeth I. Geloscher, both of Waynesboro. The unique circumstances surrounding the marriage was the result of a desire to have the knot tied quietly, and yet the bride and groom couple went to Dr. Grimm with a Maryland license he explained that it was necessary to secure a license for ceremony in that State—hence the trip across the Mason and Dixon Line.

ROOSEVELT AND WILSON MAY COME

Great Leaders are Expected to Tour this Portion of the State in October before Electing Time. President Planning.

Following the announcement made this week that President Woodrow Wilson would come into the state sometime in October, it was learned that the President Wilson will tour Pennsylvania, Iowa and several other states to help Democratic candidates for congressmen. So far he has made no definite plans for a speaking tour, but it is understood that he believes his administration will be critical at the elections, and he is anxious to do his share in the campaign.

Congressional districts in which he is likely to be a keen fight will be visited and he will tour the Fifth Adams district will come in for its share of attention, as the leader of both the Progressive and Democratic leaders while the Republicans have nominated a candidate against the Democrat they will put on the road.

The President undoubtedly will have for his summer home at Cornish, N. H., just as soon as congress adjourns. He has had many side trips planned for months during August and during September and October and will likely be just about the time Colonel Roosevelt is on his tour.

SOWING RYE

Franklin County Farmer Adopts Quaint Old Method.

D. Y. Sauberger, near Waynesboro, has just finished planting his rye and believes he is the first in Franklin county to do this. Mr. Sauberger, who has been a successful farmer, adopted a very old method of sowing his rye. He tied up the ears of his horse, climbed upon the animal and then with a sack of grain slung field seating the rye with his hand. The seed was then harrowed in and the ears were tied up to keep the seed from falling into them. Then he took the horse home and fed the oats to the horse. He adjusted the fractures.

SAYS TOO LITTLE MONEY FOR ROADS

Commissioner Frey, Having Charge of Work in Adams County, Says Funds will not Provide for Necessary Repairs.

With three hundred men making repairs to roads in York, Adams and Lancaster counties, which comprise the district under his care, Edward S. Frey, assistant to the state highway commissioner, is fearful that the $10,000 which is the amount spent in this district will not cover the work requiring immediate attention.

In addition to the gap in the good road between Gettysburg and New Oxford, remaining to complete, there are a number of bridges to build or repair and impassable roads to fix up, most of this the result of recent storms.

Mr. Frey states that more money is needed in this district, and he is fearful that he may receive orders to stop work in one place, as the money available is getting low.

In an interview Mr. Frey said: "The money at hand for my district is approximately $10,000, and this will be expended on work that must be done at once. All the work that is well be repaired and impassable places made passable. We will drag a number of the roads where work will be of advantage. I have to make some improvements in the worst spots. Some of these are building a new bridge near Spring Grove, and others are working at the Castle Fox Trap Hill. Many of the roads need ditching to keep them from floods.

"About a mile and a half of the new good road between Gettysburg and New Oxford remains to finish. This with the other work is the most necessity will soon eat up our allotment of cash."

TEAM LETS GO ANOTHER GAME

Lancaster County Nine Proves Downfall of Local Players. New Pitcher in Gettysburg's Line Up. Three Errors.

On the tobaggan. Sliding swiftly and beautifully along, the one-time hard hitting Gettysburg ball team team capered another lap of its downward course Tuesday afternoon and contributed to Ephrata a victory and shut out. Score 4 to 0. Loyal fans witnessed the disheartening sight and witness the game and they were right well pleased with the falling of the locals, although every one of the three errors registered against them resulted in runs.

Gettysburg may have had a reputation for hitting, once upon a time, but it is now a matter of history—ancient history at that. Five hits was the best the team could do and one of these came from Weimer, the team's newest fielder. With men on bases the batters were slowly progressing and fell before the delivery of the Ephrata pitcher without a struggle.

Gettysburg had a new one in the box, Bender by name. He comes from Lancaster. He took odd right and allowed six hits. Wineing ball, they say, but his aim was more a mean. There may be some consolation to the fans to know that Ephrata has just finished a winning series with Lancaster, the victorious march being stopped by Red Lion on Monday.

Three errors appear in the line-up. Allison taking his place at first. So far as ability is concerned the Gettysburg manager was not missed but he was needed badly at the bat. Allison has made good and been played their usual positions.

Ashenfelter was in the second on a base on balls, a stolen base, an overthrow by Skelly to second and a wild throw to third by Hart. He scored on a hit, a sacrifice, an error and an fly to center field. Two more were added in the ninth on a single, a double, an infield out and an over throw at home plate.

Three times Gettysburg had chances to score. First, in the fourth, Oyler drew a pass, stole second and was an easy out when he tried to steal third. Second, in the sixth, Weimer Starry and Oyler got hits with two out, Allison ending the inning on three strikes. Third, in the ninth, Weimer hit for two bases, took third on Jack Sharry's out at first and did there when Norman Sharry

FARM BUREAU ASSOCIATIONS

Farmers sometimes ask the question "Why should I be a member of the Farm Bureau association? I can get all the benefits of the Farm Bureau without becoming a member." Every farmer and everybody else personally interested in the success of the agriculture of a county should become a member of the Farm Bureau association. It is contrary to the spirit of the United States Department of Agriculture, to whom:

First. The Farm Bureau association is the organization for the purpose of which it is made, all agencies of the county and bring them to work together for the advancement of the rural interests.

Second. Agriculture is the only great industry in which there has been little, if any, community of interests. There has now come when this community of interests must be established if the farmers are to keep their best returns from their business. All farmers of the community must be in united if the best results are to be secured.

Third. While the county agricultural agent is expected to render assistance to any farmer or to the county who asks his aid, those who are members of the Farm Bureau association, by reason of their familiarity with the work, are in a position to make use of the county agent because they know how to use him. Half of the success to get the information is to know where we need assistance and where to get it.

THE MANURE SPREADER.

An Essential Part of the Up to Date Farmer's Plant.

Time was when a manure spreader was needed in an implement dealer's yard only in the wealthy farmer, but it is now a most essential to the poor man, says Bradley Hancock, Jr., in the Farm and Ranch. I do not believe in a farmer going in debt, as a general thing, but if one wants to see the superiority of and is able for a manure spreader I would unhesitatingly tell him to buy it. I know of a farm where the yields of 50 per cent was made by so selling manure as they crop with a prender against a 20 per cent yield where the manure was scattered with a four cloud fork. In this case the yield from land on which the manure was distributed by a spreader was sixty-seven bushels per acre, against thirty bushels per acre on land where the manure was broadcasted with forks. Further, it is cheap and hard to get as well as expensive, but a good load of good manure, broadcasted with a modern manure spreader of the right kind will put more distribute forty big loads of manure a day.

I have heard a farmer say: "If I did not have a manure spreader I would borrow money and buy one." I do not see how anyone can borrow money to buy one of interest rather than be without one. The manure spreader is invaluable."

Compost as Forage

Compost are an item crop in put on ground where wood ashes have been more recovered. For hogs there is nothing better than to offer them a box on a manurial pen field. Part of the pen might be fenced off for them and the rest cut and cured for cattle and horse feed.

CLEANING UP SHEEP BARNS

There are often several mitise dull days on the farm before haying comes, and they may well be taken advantage of to get the sheep barns cleaned out. Some farmers have the sheep run under the stable. It is at the time of the sheep are turned to pasture, but it is needless to say these are not the sanitary nor the most improvement farmers. The pen for the manure is not in the barn, but out in the fields, where they will do good to the soil. They be sure. It cannot be placed on the cultivated fields at this time, but how about spreading it thinly over the lawns or extra meadows where the grass is getting short and needs new manure fertilizer for growth?

It is best not to place sheep manure on the pasture where sheep are going, since if there are any harmful germs in it they might be taken into the sheep's system again, but there are always plenty of other pastures that need it badly and that will make good use of it. With the manure all cleaned out and thick, fresh beds put in, the barns will seem clean and fresh, a suitable place for the sheep to return to when occasion demands.—Farm Progress.

EXPECT CROWDS AT BENDERSVILLE

County Meeting of Patriotic Orders in Mountain City Promises to be a Great Success. Business Meeting, Speaking and Parade.

Acceptances from almost all the Patriotic Orders Sons of America in Adams County have been received by the Bendersville lodge which issued a general invitation to attend their big celebration in that town Saturday evening. The town expects one of the largest crowds it has ever entertained.

The majority of the lodges will attend with their full membership and others will send delegations. Many of them will take along bands, at least four or five musicians will be sent to the column. Dr. James G. Stover will be the chief marshal of the parade and will be assisted by a number of competent aides. The line of march will be so arranged that all may see the demonstration conveniently.

The response of the lodges throughout the county has been very gratifying. Arendtsville, Littlestown, New Oxford and Gettysburg are looking among the places which expect to send large delegations.

In the afternoon a business meeting will take place in Fruit Growers Hall. Speaking will be held in the town in the evening.

The speech making in the evening will occur in the Square and will be in the hands of competent orators. United States Senator Boies Penrose has been invited to take part but his acceptance has not yet been received.

Dwarf Trees.

The Chinese Embassy on interior decoration extends to the wonderful dwarf trees, once almost peculiarly relatively expensive, are now to be had at really popular prices, commencing at about 60 cents for diminutive yews and cedars that look as if they had stood ages at a "Kew-pie" garden. Stately oaks, sycamores, cedars, standard at least, are to be found, but wonderful with their gnarled and twisted branches and close foliage, and year by year the ambient forest trees viewed from afar and through the "wrong end" of a telescope.

To Seal Bottles.

Bottles may be securely sealed in the following manner: Place the bottle or tumbler of a pound of sealing wax, the same quantity of beeswax and a piece of beeswax. When the mixture fluxes, add 1 with a tallow candle. Now, a bunch of cork is dipped in melted, dip the cork into the melted bottles in the mixture. It will completely exclude the air.

Civilization's Advance.

How timid and puny seem the sublime roar of the ocean, the crowing of roosters and the croak of farm magnates when we analyze, as we linger in some distant conservatory, we recruit our wasted energies on bouttitiers, cyclamens, pinnonpraths, telephone bells and silver horns.

EDDIE PLANK IS WHITEWASH KING

Holds the Record for Shut-outs in the American League Few Have Passed the Half Century Figure. Walsh is Second.

Should Christy Mathewson, of the Giants, and Eddie Plank, of the Athlyetics, face each other in another world's series contest next fall the spectators fortunate enough to witnessing the battle will be treated to a battle between the greatest whitewash kings in the two leading American Leagues says the Philadelphia Record.

Mathewson has for several years been the kalsomine king of the senior league, but it was not until May 28 of this year that Plank's friends lost a right to announce that the veteran left-hander had by his credit more shut-outs than any other flinger in the junior organization.

When the season started Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, possessed the honor now owned by Plank. of course, frequently keeping his adversaries away from the scoring station. The Westerner had used the honorable 56 times the Easterner 55. Jimmy Callahan did no give Walsh a chance to start a whitewash until July 4, when the Sox flinger had pitched three shut-outs and nine more games. Walsh, in his second trip out, came through with a "Chicago" victory over the Yankees and he will be the only pitcher whose horse of shut-outs before he ran afoul of Connie Mack's boys, the best known graduate is the important matter of spilling whitewash. Plank has denied his opponents runs in 59 controversies. Walsh in 57.

Walter Johnson on July 3 of this year got into the Walsh-Plank class and by the half-century post in whitewashing. At the end of the campaign of 1913 he had to his credit 45 kalsominings. By May 29 the Idaho Phenom had had his opponents on his foot four more times, but he had so wait until he could produce that fifteen whitewashing, dated for the contest against Boston.

Plank, Walsh and Johnson are not in much danger of having any more associates in their tight little whitewash society for some time to come. Only three other American League pitchers—Chief Bender, Jack Coombs, of Philadelphia, and Joe Wood, of Boston—have succeeded in keeping their opponents off the plate in 25 or more games. Bender has shut out his rivals 33 times, Coombs has done it 26 times.

Barney Phelan, Father Healy's sexton, was stumped for the first time Monday. One day while he was serving at dinner, one of his boarders said to him: "Barney, why is my ankle placed between my knee and my foot?" "Because, sir," replied Barney, "because it is to keep your calf from stealing your corn."

SUFFRAGISTS GET MANY FOLLOWERS

Gettysburg and County Workers Claim that Numerous Adherents are Coming to their Cause as Result of Campaign.

That the recently organized suffragists of Adams county are highly gratified with the success which has attended their campaign during the past week is the opinion expressed made by those intimately connected with the work. The district organizations have been quietly at work, distributing suffrage literature, talking to their friends and gradually working up a strong sentiment in favor of the movement.

The entire county is covered by the organization effected at Gettysburg several weeks ago and, with the continuation of the systematic work now in effect, it is believed that the voters will be ready for the ballot, enough to declare themselves a large majority for equal suffrage.

Some of the district superintendents are not sitting those in sympathy with the movement, but the slips which declare their allegiance to the cause but will wait until the spirit is more favorable to the cause, at which time they expect to make an exceptionally fine showing. Others are giving the matter careful study. All report the great majority, if not actually for suffrage, at least mighty interested in it and willing to be convinced.

The county committee now plans to secure a speaker of national reputation to address a mass meeting sometime in the near future. It will be held at a convenient place and will be well advertised so that it is believed a large attendance will result.

Local suffragists are much interested in the activity the Women's Progressive Suffrage Executive Committee met with in Harrisburg Tuesday and decided to work for one day, August 15, at something besides their pet projects in welfare, or, rather, suffrage work. This day is to be known throughout the country as "Self Sacrifice Day for Suffrage".

"You know", said the president, Mrs. Frank Bell, "we have to do our home duties the next thing in importance during this and next year, if the principle of suffrage, which we work constantly for its success in 1915."

The happiest solution of the "labor problem" for that sacrifice day came to an unquestioned fact. Of further news toward the newspapers, and the Pennsylvania Women's Progressive Suffrage Association will become reporters on a limited number of the dailies. Daily news papers from nominee to sonnet. Salaries will vary, but whatever the amount, it will be paid by the worker directly to Miss Jane Addams, at Hull House, Chicago, to be conveyed to the big national Woman's Sacrifice Fund.

The entire fund will be spent in extensive work in the six states in suffrage campaign this year.

Max Flack of Chicago Fede.

the pitcher and third baseman, and he edged Tinker out one in the box when he catches the third wicker pitcher, Max Flack, of Chicago, is a lad.

The young man played the outfield for Fecta in the Federal League last year and batted .253 in 117 games. He is fitted for third place in the Cubs' Chesapeake of Decatur. These two positions fill the bill, and Flack is two men ahead of them were Kaylor of Louisville, who batted .296 in 86 games, Carey Talgarten, and Kennedy of Springfield, now with St. Louis Feds, who batted .285 in 62 games.

During the season with Peoria, which was a very fast Federal League, he averaged .253 in 117 games. He is fitted for third place in the Cubs' Chesapeake of Decatur. These two positions fill the bill, and Flack is two men ahead of them were Kaylor of Louisville, who batted .296 in 86 games, Carey Talgarten, and Kennedy of Springfield, now with St. Louis Feds, who batted .285 in 62 games.

Flack is twenty-three years of age and his home is in Fort Lee, N. J. He has been playing ball only two years and Manager Tinker, anticipating his mother year's training in fast company, may be expected to hit one of the sensations of the game.

JOE TINKER WINS FROTEST

Buffalo Player Ran to Bench Instead of Keeping on Base Line—Game to Be Played Over.

Manager Joe Tinker's protest of the game with Buffalo on May 19 in Chicago that some rich stuff is brewing in the Federal League, which is surpassing Clyde Goodwin's feet of sending balls to the bleachers. It is clear claims that a Buffalo batter ran to the bench instead of keeping on the ring a ball, and later, seem that the Chicago players did not make a play at first base on the hit, run out to the base again. The rules, argued Tinker, require the base runner to keep on the base line while running to first base. Had the base runner been required to run out the Chicago manager claims the winning run would not have been scored. President Gilmore decided with Tinker and the game will be played over.

Another Pitching Phenom.

Hughey Jennings is going to flash another pitching phenom on the pale Ile this year. Two years ago he swung Jean Dubuc. Last year he showed the fans quite a pitcher in George Kunze. This year Johnny Wilhelm, a Hawaiian, is picked as being of the caliber that makes the grand ones on the racing bill.

MAX FLACK IS FAST

DIMINUTIVE FED OUTFIELDER IS SECOND TY COBB.

His Ability to Beat Out Bunts Has Caused Managers of Independent League—He is Also Rated as Hard Hitter.

Max Flack, the diminutive outfielder for the Chicago Feds, is looked upon by nearly all of the clubs of the new organization as the fastest man in the league, writes John G. Boys in the Chicago Daily News. Flack's speed on bunts has caused everyone for many pitchers and third basemen. The speed has been his chief claim, found Flack had reached the limited mark.

Maximilian is built much on the lines of Tommy Leach of the Cubs, although he is a left-handed batter, while Tommy hits naturally.

In the outer garden Flack's speed has carried him under many hard hit balls which with a slower man is the left park would have gone for home runs. He has been a consistent good left arm, and has stopped half a dozen runners at the plate who have tried to score on short hits or fly balls. Max has a way of getting himself where ever he grabs a fly, especially if there is a runner on third, which takes a chance of scoring after the ball is caught.

This young athlete is a place hitter. Max's favorite spot is just over the head of the second baseman. Sometimes drops the ball out of the reach of the pitcher and third base. Max hits to take two bases. Seventy five per cent of his hits have made have been between first and second bases. On the bases while he is on it every one of them either down the third base line or between

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

HOG CHOLERA TREATMENT.

Immunity Can Be Secured by Simultaneous Use of Serum and Virus. By D. E. Salmon, Kansas Agricultural College.

The previous use of antihog cholera serum has caused much damage. The failure of serum, immunity obtained by the use of the virus, and the failure of serum cures farmers in vaccination treatment.

Artificial immunity against hog cholera can be had by the use of serum and virus. Immunity can be secured against a healthy hog. Virus should be used on pigs weighing less than fifty pounds. It should not be used on overstock sows, suckling pigs, animals suffering from any disease, or if the animals are infected with parasites or with the surroundings infected with parasites. In such instances serum alone should be used. Immunity can be secured by the use of serum and virus. Immunity of these instances to use serum and virus successfully depends on the experience one shows that at times great losses are incurred.

Serum and virus should be used as a preventive only, and it will prevent no disease and kill no hogs. Serum should be in the hand virus may increase the disease. In the beginning serum alone should be used, and when the animals are in normal condition again the simultaneous method may be applied. If the temperature of the animal is high, no matter from what cause, virus increases the fever, which may kill the animal. When hogs are infected with parasites like ritatly of hog lice, mortality is reduced, and you may kill the animals. The management of the herd and the conditions are first requisite.

Immunity against hog cholera can be had by using the virus and serum. Immunity is obtained by the virus and serum. Immunity is desired the virus and serum may be given after the conditions are favorable.

RAISING FALL COLTS.

Advantages of Having the Foals Come Late in the Year.

The breeder of spring fall colts is confronted by more difficulties among farmers than at any east, and especially in their breeding of the mares and their year-ling W. F. Purdue in the American Farmer. The mares of the year-ling get late during the winter months and should have time to recover from the strain of the stage trump. The children started to jog at him making a commotion in the stable. He seemed to understand that they were making fun of his dignity and he hid in his jacket and pulled out the brownie "roll of bills" he had earned a week ago. These bills he waved at the children, and repeated the process. The children would insure respect, even if he did have old clothes.

Memory Failure.

A Russian chemist gives interesting accounts of memory failure of some of his patients. Many patients have been troubled with absolute failure of memory. He could remember exactly what happened a few years ago, but a year ago, but occurrences of later date he could not remember. Where attacked by the disease he was engaged in writing a letter, which he could not finished. He remembered the first part, but could not tell how he had intended to finish it. He was at best unable to remember whether he had dined.

Standing in With the Doctor.

The wife of a surgeon in Baltimore has one accomplishment of a large party, when, just before the guests began to arrive, she found that she had not a sufficient number of chairs. In her desperation she bethought herself of a nearby undertaker who might be willing to let her have a few of the mend-d pieces. She telephoned and was hurried at the reply:

"Why, certainly, Mrs. Smith. We'll let you have all you want at half-price—the doctor gives us so much business."

PREPARED FOR "RAINY DAY"

Ameer of Bokhara Sold to Be Storing Up Treasure at the Rate of $6,000,000 a Year.

The literary setzede heard in the world is probably that owned by the Ameer of Bokhara, the Russian vassal state to Central Asia, writes the St. Petersburg correspondent of the New York Sun. According to the Turkestanskiya Kraj the Ameer possesses 1,000 boxes of Saxon and Turkish silks, 46 feet wide and 20 feet high, completely filled with gold bars and dried gold.

Some years ago the Ameer had another vault built to hold his savings, and the new storehouse is now almost full. There is the Bokhara treasure so enormous such book, which has been kept secret, and in which all revenues and expenditures are supposed to be entered. Some of the generations it has never been checked with the "rock in hand."

Grafting is the easiest thing in the world at harvest. The Ameer officials drive now salary. They are appointed on the understanding that they can make out of their various offices as much as possible, and the largest permanent charge on the treasury is some in excess of $15,000 annually for a local hospital. Then there is a small contingent guard the upkeep of the Russian police in the protectorate and the maintenance of the Bokharan "army" which has shrunk to a mere bodyguard.

Among the current savings, it is calculated, amounts to more than $5,000,000 a year. He is by traditional usage compelled to send every year a present of some kind to the Sultan of the Russian authorities at Samarkand and Tashkent. The presents are generally carpets, silks and the like, which are immediately sold by the recipients. Of the remaining $6,000,000 the Ameer so regularly buys them Government A. S. Bredbeck. Bonds and so and to serve again as "press-ins" the following year.

BEAUTY IN THE FAR NORTH

Magnificent Displays of Color When the Arctic Sun Shines for a Brief Period.

Nature has provided wonderful displays of color as an offset to the extraordinary monotony of winter. A traveler in Alaska describes in vivid words the glorious transformation of the Arctic sun as follows:

"Plays a prominent part in the southern horizon, brightening into lemon and then into clear primrose, tinged with pink, and then into a deep heaven. They a beautiful circle of blush pink and pale green, and the Northern Lights gently stretches all around the edge of the sky, and brightens and whitens the stars into out and the heavens change to blue.

"The dead white mirror of the snow takes every tint that the sky deposits and is a fairy of indescribable radiance. Then the sun's disk appears with a flame of color that is beyond the approachable warmth, and for a little space the sky and the snow are gilded with the live tops and the distant hills. A little later spring's first fruit, dead white so longer, its dry, crystalline structure is transformed into the most fancies with every color of the prism. Then the sun is gone, and the sky and the snow are gilded over anoolhyat again stretches round the horizon, and the distant hills are now the pale primrose glows in the south against the purple sky with its silver stars."

ONE KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Henry Spaulding's Automobile Strikes Bicyclist who Receives Fractured Skull from which he Dies in York Hospital.

With his skull fractured, a deep cut above the eyes, his lip partly cut off, a broken leg, bruises, cuts, abrasions and contusions all over the body, Daniel Lookenbill of Abbottstown, died at the Hanover hospital as the result of an automobile accident that happened shortly before 6 o'clock Thursday evening at a point two miles south of Abbottstown on the Hanover road.

At the time of the accident Mr. Lookenbill was returning from work at Hanover on his bicycle. There is a steep hill at Harry Brinton's place, and at this point, while pedaling up the hill Mr. Lookenbill is said to have ridden on the left hand side of the hill while other people riding while the right is covered with loose stone.

It appears that an auto owned by Henry Spaulding, of Littlestown, was going towards Hanover in his automobile, travelling at about 12 or 15 miles an hour. Owing to the top of the hill being between them the two men were unable to see each other until the collision occurred on the crest.

As soon as he could stop his car Mr. Spaulding went to Lookenbill's aid, and had him taken to the office of Dr. Topper, in Abbottstown, and there Lookenbill was rushed to the York hospital in an ambulance in charge of Undertaker Charles Snyder, of York. PICTURE SAGGING

Must Do Something with Famous Gettysburg Masterpiece.

Just what the State Board of Public Grounds and Buildings will do with the famous Battle painting "Gettysburg", now hanging in the old flag room in the State Library, is a matter of some guesses. The frame of the canvass has bulged it, and the danger of it being pushed from the frame by its own weight. Attention was called to this some time ago, and it has been thought that the great picture is one of the big rooms in the Capitol, but the difficulty is to find a suitable place. The corridor on the fourth floor, just outside of the Attorney General's Department, has been suggested, but the light in the corridor is very bad and the beauties and detail of the picture could not be seen to the best advantage so that this suggestion was abandoned. It is possible that a place may be found for it in the rotunda near the old battle flag case.

ALLEMAN AUTO BADLY WRECKED

L. M. Alleman, of Littlestown, Has New Car Damaged when he Collides in Cut on Highway. One Man Hurt.

George A. Wagman, a contractor, of Dallastown, was slightly injured and his automobile badly wrecked between an automobile which he was driving and one driven by L. M. Alleman, of Littlestown.

The accident occurred on the York road at the home of William Neff. Alleman was going east toward York while Wagman was coming out of the Seven Valleys road and was going south. There is a deep cut at the point and neither driver saw the other in time to avoid the accident. Wagman car struck that of Alleman's in front, turning it completely around and running it onto the bank.

Both machines were damaged, but Alleman's car was the worst wrecked. Wagman's back, Alleman's machine, a new Hale car, had an axle broken, the left front wheel torn off the wheel guards and lamps smashed. Wagman's car had a bent axle and mud shield broken and the left front wheel was torn off.

Another message received by the Reuter's agency says that the fall of the Servian troops successively retreating before the Austrian advance is strikingly apparent. As it had been pointed by Hinta a few days ago the Austrian side, Austria draw back when she once started, the situation was felt in diplomatic circles that there had been any general mobilization yet and announced that effort can minimize possible dangers of progress. LAY ASIDE MONEY FOR COUNTY WORK

Adams County Gets its Share of the State Money for Work on the Roads. Over Nine Thousand Comes to this District.

An allowance of $9775.15 has been made for state road work in this district which comprises Adams, Lancaster and York counties. Work is now in progress between Gettysburg and New Oxford.

The ten days that have passed since it was decided that the automobile license fund should be turned over to the state highway department for maintenance and repair of roads, have demonstrated that the amount of work necessary to put the highways in good shape far exceeds expectations. Nearly four thousand men have been laboring at top speed all over the state and while great improvement has been noticed in the condition of the roads, officials of the state highway department assert that it will be several weeks before a general idea can be gained of the total amount of labor that is being done. The final officers of the commonwealth, after prolonged litigation, in which they were defeated, agreed to pay over to the state highway commissioner the automobile funds necessary to insure good roads throughout the state. The amount involved in the 1914 fund was approximately $1,150,000, while $250,000 remained from the unexpended portion of the 1913 funds.

In view of the lateness of the season and the vast amount of work to be done in filling up holes, cleaning out ditches, culverts and gutters and sweeping up and rolling the highways, the state highway department has decided not to begin resurfacing on state highways until the general conditions of the roads have been improved. A fact not generally understood is that the automobile license money is the only fund available for repairing maintenance or construction of state highways. There is an unexpended balance for the maintenance and repair of state aid highways and the state highway department has been working on these roads. The amount of state aid maintenance money now remaining is about $25,000.

From time to time additional authorizations will be made by the maintenance division for repairs on these roads. On many of these state aid highways the repairs are extensive, including resurfacing with bituminous material and a practical reconstruction of the road to secure a better and more lasting highway.

In the district comprising Adams, Lancaster and York counties $9,775.15 has been authorized for this year. In Butler township, more than two miles of macadam built in 1916, beginning at the Biglerville borough line and extending to the Arendtsville borough line took $2,004.66.

SUN AND GARDEN.

When planting the garden remember that the best and sunlovving plants should have a location where the unobstructed sunshine can have the right of way. A high growing plant should not shade the low growing one that requires sunlight. Plants like corn, pole beans, tomatoes, etc., should be reared north and south so that the sun reach the soil and base of the plants when the sunshine is most effective.

GOOD EGGS PARCEL POST.

A System of Marketing That Offers Possibilities of Better Prices.

(Prepared by United States department of agriculture.)

For proper shipment by parcel post after the thorough inspection of the stuff the eggs that remain should be packed in a container of corrugated pasteboard, metal, wood or other suitable material. The possibilities of improvement in the container may be so wrapped that nothing can escape from the container and each egg be addition to be wrapped separately in excelsior, cotton or some such material.

In packing eggs it is well to weed them as far as is practical according to size and color and to keep for home use those which are irregular in shape, unusually long or thin shelled. Case makers that have been badly scarred by broken eggs should be replaced by new ones and the partners returned to county as possible. In short, every effort should be made to deliver an attractive package as possible into the hands of the customers. The extra expense will be little and the return increased tenfold.

The larger the shipments that the producer can arrange to make the cheaper can be afford to sell his eggs. Within the first and second zones of the parcel post service a package of 2 crates for the third zone and sixty for each additional pound. Ordinarily eggs weigh about one and a half pounds a dozen, which, with the additional weight of the wrapping and container, would make a package of a dozen eggs weigh between two and three pounds. The postage on this would be 7 cents. If another dozen eggs were included in the package the postage would not be more than 9 cents, or 4½ instead of 7 cents a dozen eggs.

To the value of the eggs and the cost of postage must be added the cost of the container and the wrapping. For two dozen eggs this may be estimated at 8 cents. With postage at 9 cents it would, therefore, cost 17 cents to market two dozen eggs, or 8½ cents a dozen. By shipping in ten dozen lots it is estimated that the marketing cost can be reduced to 4.7 cents a dozen.

Where the producer can be sure more than once that eggs will, of course, be somewhat reduced. Large sized containers made of fibre, from 1 to four trips, smaller ones three to five, so that it will be practicable to require his customer to return the containers periodically. The postage required for the first trip is prepaid from the bill for the next shipment.

Protective Hive Entrance.

Very often bees will come to hive entering beehives, especially such hives as are left on their summer stands during the winter. A little way to protect bees without interfering in any manner with the entrance of bees is shown in the accompanying sketch. A triangular piece of wood is placed at each side of the entrance and a strip of the same size is nailed fast, preferably galvanized, in fastened from side to side so as to cover the entrance completely. The triangular pieces are screwed to the ninth of the hive so they may be easily removed when necessary.

STUFFING THE COW.

Some farmers regard the cow as a machine which will do just as good work on one kind of roughage as on another. They feel that just about as they would feed a chemical engine and think as long as they feed the cows full she ought to keep a good head of cattle at the farm. In other words if they give her all she can eat she ought to give the highest profit in terms of milk.

The full cow is fully necessarily a well fed cow, and many of the bulky foods are objectionable when fed in large quantities. It is unreasonable to expect that a cow just because she is full of hay or straw, will do good work at the milk pail.

These bulky foods are all right and are very necessary, but a cow cannot usually consume enough of them to make her of milk. She must have at least half of all her nutriment she needs for giving milk, supplied her in the form of concentrates, and this grain should be fed daily and fed dry.

WILL PUBLISH CROP DAMAGE

State Department of Agriculture will Endeavor to Give Farmers Information of Value from All Parts of the State.

Efforts are to be made by the new bureau of statistics of the State Department of Agriculture to obtain first hand information as to the damage done by the hail storms of Pennsylvania by the pests and storms which have afflicted the farming districts this year. The plan was recently started of collecting data from each township for a monthly crop bulletin and it will be brought right down to date.

First hand information is to be secured as to the average of staple crops together with the effect of conditions. On what it is to be asked what is the crop, what damage was done by the Hessian fly, how much of last year's wheat is on hand together with prices. The damage done by the insects and the growing corn, the yield and the amount cut for ensilage. Also be asked about and the prevalence of blight and bugs on potatoes will be inquired into. The number of hogs marketed and the prices will another line of questions by the bureau.

H. H. Wible, chief of the bureau, says that the effort is being made for the first time to get information which will be of interest to every farmer when published. Now much of the information is obtained without system and it is the idea to cover the whole State and to take in practically every branch of agricultural produce.

THE PARCEL POST.

The farmers are not getting the best use possible of the parcel post. That is a recommendation. They are getting comparatively little of the benefit of the new system of marketing by mail. Probably they will do more business in the future. They are not prone to jump into new things very rapidly. Many of them are not in the habit of making use of the new system. Perhaps they have never, or rarely, advertising in city papers, and a doubt are holding up conservatives which will be overcome by the city people.—Farm and Fireside.

UTILITY OF THE SKUNK.

It Destroys Many Harmful Insect Pests.

(Prepared by United States department of agriculture.)

The skunk stands among the most beneficial mammals because of the insect pest insects brutalized to the farmer. It is the best known enemy of crop destroyers. It is the common enemy worm, the white lined crop worm and the fall cut worm. It is also very destructive to small grains, corn and grasses and cause heavy losses every year to farmers.

Two kinds of tobacco worms, which are in some sections of the country, are eaten by the skunk in large numbers. The skunk prevents their dive from tobacco to tomatoes with such adaptability that it has spread over wide areas in the United States. The skunk prevents the tobacco worm is such that we will dig them out from the ground in great numbers in the late summer and early fall.

The white grub is also dug for by the skunk and sometimes the corn and the strawberry grubs generally regarded as the most harmful of all. Though in its eager search for the white grub it does some damage to a few berries. The skunk also eats grasshoppers, crickets, locusts, bugs, which hatch from the white grubs.

Skunks also destroy the bug grub and grasshoppers, cutworms, crickets, locusts, mice, rabbits, moles, beetles, Colorado potato beetles, bird mice and rats. The skunk is especially useful in destroy big the rats and mice that commonly do great damage. If a skunk, for a, up his residence near a farmer's house, it will be found that it will remain there if not disturbed and practically all the rodents are destroyed.

Skunks are revered of destroying bees. It is true that skunks sniff for little, if any, from the stings of bees and they do not feed on bees in any practicably a whole colony of bees in the hive. In other words, the possibilities of the animal attacking the bees are so remote that it is misplacing the hives upon skunk.

Growing Old by Degrees.

Grows old but one many stages. You can remember the time when, in reading your favorite author, you were disgusted to find that he had made his hero forty years old, and you wondered how he could be guilty of imputing manners to such an unmentionable age. By and by, even though you found forty years to be the old age of youth, you still considered it the thought that it was the youth of old age, and still later you will wonder when youth ends and old age begins.

Mystery of the Sea

By EUNICE BLAKE.

The night was pitchy dark as Captain MacArthur, master of the lazy Kate, stood on the deck of his ship listening to a sound that greatly disturbed him. The sound he heard he had attached to a buoy. But it was so faint that he was not sure that what he was hearing was the clanging rhythm of little his ears that some persons are subject to or a freak of his imagination.

There it was again, this time a trifle more distinct.

The Pingnin was coming westward on a monthly trip between Glasgow and New York. The James and Sidney had been at sea about twenty days unless behind. True, clouds had prevented an observation for several days, but Captain MacArthur had so much on his mind he had not the slightest fear of a near shoal. Indeed, he was in the middle of the Atlantic ocean. Nevertheless he was uneasy, he was lazy, for the falling crane with the hypnotic of the sea.

Fearing to appear any nearer to it, he gave orders to the helmsman to steer to a circle while the lead was cast. The lead was dropped to bottom, but the captain's fears were not allayed. The sound of the bell was rapidly growing more distinct. There was the same irregularity of the strokes as when he first heard it. He was alarmed by the waves. MacArthur had been long at sea and they had always seen a from the western ocean, a lazy sea.

There can be nothing more elevating to throw a man off his equanimity than the sight of a huge mass of water. We hear or see or feel something; we know what it is, and yet we know that it is not what we seem and we feel it is liable to come to us in dreams, but rarely when we are awake. Captain MacArthur momentarily dreaded to strike a submerged rock, yet he knew that there was no such danger within a thousand miles of him. Imagined the few men who were on deck with him if they heard his tolling and if they did, but none of them could give any explanation of it. None of them knew little of the sea, or geography, but there was none so ignorant that he did not know that there were no rocks in the mid-Atlantic ocean.

Yet there is always an uneasiness in the mind when a mariner thinks there be in that vast wilderness of water, and a doubt are holding up conservatives which will be overcome by the city people.—Farm and Fireside.

Observed. If such were the case there would be no bell buoy to warn the lazy, and if there were such a rock protected by a buoy it would be not there.

Something like this was running in the mind of Captain MacArthur, and probably he was more keenly alive to the fact
